

WICKLIFFE, OH---Vanderbilt's Maria Bulanova and McKendree's Breanna Clemmer have been selected for top honors on the eve of the 2019 NCAA Championship as the National Tenpin Coaches Association unveiled its All-America team at the NCAA Awards Dinner Wednesday night.

Bulanova, the Division I Player of the Year, and Clemmer, the Division II/III Player of the Year, headed the five-woman first team that includes Nebraska's Raquel Orozco and Meghan Straub and Stephen F. Austin's Dakotah Hazlewood.

Straub, a third-team honoree a year ago, had a banner senior campaign as Nebraska's anchor bowler. In addition to five Top 5 finishes including wins at the Bearcat Hammer and Track Kat Klash, she led the nation in traditional average (21.24) and Baker doubles (60.9) and ranked third in the Player Composite Index.

Hazlewood won the Kutztown Invitational and was second at the All-State Sugar Bowl as she earned All-America recognition for the first time. She ranked fourth nationally in overall and traditional average, sixth in the Player Composite Index and fifth in strikes, Baker average and first-ball 9 or strike.
